

The Little Mermaid 2.0

You have probably heard about the story of the little mermaid and how she got tricked by Ursula, the evil sea witch who is half octopus half woman. But now I'll tell you the real version of this story.

It is about a little mermaid called Ariel who was supposed to be the next queen of the sea. Ariel loved adventures and liked going to the sea surface.

One day she found prince Eric, a human, and fell completely in love with him. But the problem was that they couldn't be together because of their differences. So she came to my house to make a deal with me so I could give her human legs.

I tried to convince her not to change for a guy, but she insisted on her idea, even though I told her, it was not worth it.

After all our discussion, I ended up giving her what she wanted. She went to the surface looking for her ridiculous platonic love. I didn't hear about her for some time until she came back to my house without a voice. I wasn't surprised at all, she somehow explained that this prince Eric had stolen her voice and left with another girl. Apparently humans are in love with mermaid's voices so they have a kind of tradition where you are respected and admired only if you have stolen a mermaid's voice. In simple words, he used her for other humans' approval.

Now she didn't only have human legs but also no voice. The first thing that came to my mind was "told you, now you have to live with the consequences" But when I saw her that sad I decided to help her. First of all I gave her her tail and voice back. Then, we went to the surface and I used my magic to make an enormous storm that made the sea furious. Gigantic waves hit Prince Eric's boat. He fell directly into the water and saw us. He told Ariel that the other girl who he left with was actually me. He started inventing all this story where I was so jealous of Ariel. Not only had I wanted to steal her man, but also I had taken her voice. Of course Ariel was so blind because of love that she fell straight into his lies.

So that's how this story ends, with this horrible finale where I'm believed the villain when I'm actually the hero and the handsome Prince Eric is the real villain.
